Hear The Waves In A Sea Shell Wedding Favor

She sells sea shells by the sea shore and many will end up in the form of a sea shell wedding favor. They are ideal for the couple getting married on the beach, or those who simply love the water. You can buy them or make your own to match the theme of the wedding.

Gluing small shells to cardboard sucker sticks to make them look like suckers can make an easy sea shell wedding favor, and placing enough for the entire table in a half oyster shell makes them really stand out. Wrap the entire package in sheer white netting to make it seem as though they were fresh caught from the sea.

A metal bottle opener inserted into one end of a small conch shell makes a nice sea shell wedding favor as many people can always use a good bottle opener. For a seaside or on boat wedding there is a boat-shaped candle dubbed the love boat that brightens up any wedding table. It arrives with a clear plastic case and all you have to do is add your personalized tag to remind everyone where it came from.

Nautical Place Card Holders Add To Décor

A tropical-themed wedding can make use of place card holders in the shape of miniature palm trees. They will add wonderful sea shell wedding favor decoration to the table while performing a valuable service for reserved seating. You can find miniature light houses to serve as place card holders as well, and by placing them in a bed of sea shells they can light up any table.

Sachets can also make a nice sea shell wedding favor consisting of a small white net bag filled with small shells and tied with a white ribbon. You can find the ribbon available for personalizing with your names and wedding date printed on it. Half scalloped clam shells can be the base for everything good in designing your own sea shell wedding favor. You can fill them with small bath beads, candy or other items you choose, then wrap them in netting and tie with a ribbon to sit on the tables until opened by your guests.

A small glass bottle half filled with sand sets the stage for this sea shell wedding favor as small sea shells can be placed inside with the sand. Some can be glued to the outside of the bottle as well, or a gold string glued to the shell and hung around the neck of the bottle for a real sea side treat.
